

International House of Prayer of Greater Fort Wayne

...a day and night , city-wide, multi-church prayer and worship ministry

A Word about Liturgy...

Part of my personal prayer journey has been to begin to read the prayers of the historical church and to make use of liturgical prayers. It has been a blessing I had not expected. Brian Zahnd says it well commenting on liturgy: 'I need something more rigorous, something more deeply rooted, something that draws from the deep wells of ancient wisdom and practice. This is what we find in the Great Tradition of the Christian Faith.' Denise recently heard this statement about liturgy 'The liturgy is of comfort to the disarrayed mind. We need not choose our thoughts, the words are aligned, like a rope for us to cling to'. I read the following liturgy on the day of the Queens funeral and it felt so very fitting, more than just a personal confession but a corporate cry of the heart.

A liturgy;

For those who weep without knowing why

There is so much lost in this world, O Lord, so much that aches and groans and shivers for want of redemption, so much that seems dislocated, upended, desecrated, unhinged—even in our own hearts.

Even in our own hearts we bear the mark of all that is broken.
What is best in this world has been bashed and battered and trodden down.
What was meant to be the substance has become the brittle shell, haunted by the ghosts of a glory so long crumbled that only its rubble is remembered now.

Is it any wonder we should weep sometimes, without knowing why? It might be anything.
And then again, it might be everything.

For we feel this.
We who are your children feel this empty space where some lost thing should have rested in its perfection, and we pine for those nameless glories, and we pine for all the wasted stories in our world, and we pine for these present wounds.
We pine for our children and for their children too, knowing each will have to prove how this universal pain is also personal.
We pine for all children born into these days of desolation—whose regal robes were torn to tatters before they were even swaddled in them.

O Lord, how can we not weep, when waking each day in this vale of tears?
How can we not feel those pangs, when we, wounded by others, so soon learn to wound as well, and in the end wound even ourselves?

We grieve what we cannot heal and we grieve our half-belief, having made uneasy peace with disillusion, aligning ourselves with a self-protective lie that would have us kill our best hopes just to keep our disappointments half-confined.

We feel ourselves wounded by what is wretched, foul, and fell, but we are sometimes wounded by the beauty as well, for when it whispers, it whispers of the world that might have been our birthright, now banished,
now withdrawn, as unreachable to our wounded hearts as ancient seas receding down some endless dark.

We weep, O Lord, for those things that, though nameless, are still lost.
We weep for the cost of our rebellions, for the mocking and hollowing of holy things, for the inward curve of our souls, for the evidences of death outworked in every field and tree and blade of grass, crept up in every creature, alert in every longing, infecting all fabrics of life.

We weep for the leers our daughters will endure, as if to be made in reflection of your beauty were a fault for which they must pay.
We weep for our sons, sabotaged by profiteers who seek to warp their dreams before they even come of age.
We weep for all the twisted alchemies of our times that would turn what might have been gold into crowns of cheap tin and then toss them into refuse bins as if love could ever be a castoff thing one might simply be done with.

Phone: 260-403-4948 Email: ben@bouwersfam.com

And the secret is simply this: Christ in you!

Yes, Christ in you bringing with him the hope of all glorious things to come. Col 1:27b, JB Phillips

We weep for the wretched expressions of all things that were first built of goodness and glory but are now their own shadow twins.
We have wept so often.
And we will weep again.

And yet, there is somewhere in our tears a hope still kept.

We feel it in this darkness, like a tiny flame, when we are told

Jesus also wept.

You wept

So moved by the pain of this crushed creation, you, O Lord, heaved with the grief of it, drinking the anguish like water and sweating it out of your skin like blood.

Is it possible that you—in your sadness over Lazarus, in your grieving for Jerusalem, in your sorrow in the garden—is it possible that you have sanctified our weeping too?

For the grief of God is no small thing, and the weeping of God is not without effect.
The tears of Jesus preceded a resurrection of the dead.

O Spirit of God, is it then possible that our tears might also be a kind of intercession?

That we, your children, in our groaning with the sadness of creation, could be joining in some burdened work of coming restoration? Is it possible that when we weep and don't know why, it is because the curse has ranged so far, so wide? That we weep at that which breaks your heart, because it has also broken ours—sometimes so deeply that we cannot explain our weeping, even to ourselves?

If that is true, then let such weeping be received, O Lord, as an intercession newly forged of holy sorrow.
Then let our tears anoint these broken things, and let our grief be as their consecration—a preparation for their promised redemption, our sorrow sealing them for that day when you will take the ache of all creation, and turn it inside-out, like the shedding of an old gardener's glove.

O Lord, if it please you, when your children weep and don't know why, yet use our tears
to baptize what you love.
Amen

From Every Moment Holy Copyright © 2017
Douglas Mckelvey
(printed with permission)

With gratitude and integrity we steward your gifts. Thank you for partnering with the mission the Lord has given us in this hour as we partner with Him for His kingdom to be established.

Please make your tax deductible contribution to:

IHOP Fort Wayne
5907 West Wallen Road,
Fort Wayne, IN 46818

Ben and Denise, Please agree with us over these prayer needs for the next month...

5907 W Wallen Rd, Fort Wayne, IN 46818
Phone: 260-403-4948 Email: ben@bouwersfam.com

And the secret is simply this: Christ in you!

Yes, Christ in you bringing with him the hope of all glorious things to come. Col 1:27b, JB Phillips